Mastery Charter Schools Issues Update to School Closing Schedule

Philadelphia --- Mastery Charter Schools issued the following update to its current school closures regarding COVID-19 (Coronavirus):

“All Mastery Schools in Philadelphia & Camden will remain closed through March 27th,” said Scott Gordon, CEO of the Mastery network of schools. We want to do everything we can to ensure the health and safety of our students, teachers, and families during this difficult time.”

“I would like to assure parents that as of March 13, no staff member, student, nor family member at any Mastery school has been diagnosed with coronavirus. Over the previous week, Mastery has communicated on a regular basis with our families regarding the precautions they can take to lessen the chance of contracting the virus. The Mastery Charter Schools Network will continue to monitor the situation and will notify parents and staff with additional information and guidance.”

Mastery will provide ongoing updates on its social media channels and websites.
